

REV. DR. NICHOLAS A. PEARCE

Gifted with the heart of a shepherd and the mind of a scholar, Rev. Dr. Nicholas A. Pearce has been blessed to touch tens of thousands of lives in congregations, classrooms, conferences, and companies around the world. A thoughtful biblical expositor and passionate communicator, Dr. Pearce has been trusted to minister the timeless truth of God's Word across denominational, generational, and cultural boundaries for over two decades. Named one of "Today's Joshuas" by The Christian Outlook, he was called to the ministry at age seven and raised up under the tutelage of his childhood pastor, the legendary Bishop Arthur M. Brazier, and has had the privilege of serving on the pastoral staffs of two of Chicago's leading churches, the Apostolic Church of God and Apostolic Faith Church.

Beyond the pulpit, Dr. Pearce is an award-winning leadership expert & organizational behaviorist who has served as a clinical professor at Northwestern University's Kellogg School of Management since 2012. He holds four academic degrees from MIT, Northwestern University, and Fuller Theological Seminary and is the author of the bestselling book The Purpose Path: A Guide to Pursuing Your Authentic Life's Work. He and his work have been spotlighted by The New York Times, ESPN, Harvard Business Review, Christianity Today, and beyond.

Devoted to his family, Dr. Pearce is married to his beloved childhood sweetheart, Tammy, and is the proud dad of their brilliant son, Nolan.
